

Personal Security

“Incredibly useful and hopefully makes people think about the level of security we need.”

Creating a Security Aware Culture

Animal Rights extremism and globalisation of the opposition to the use of animals in medical research through such groups as PETA has made it more important than ever to be vigilant. Having a security aware culture and knowledge of animal rights extremist tactics can help to provide a safe working environment and reduce the impact of these threats.

Agenda's security courses have been delivered to over 4000 people worldwide with excellent feedback, continually updated and designed to meet your needs these courses will support all of your other security based activities. All courses are interactive with the emphasis on effective learning through interaction and enjoyment.

Personal Security Course

Specifically designed for research facilities the course covers 4 key areas:

- Understanding low, medium and high risk animal rights tactics
- Protecting yourself and your information
- Tactics to reduce your personal risk
- Develop your personal security action plan

Who should attend?

The course is designed for all of those concerned about their personal security, those named individuals within research, senior managers, supervisors and directors.

What will I learn?

Animal Rights groups have been successful at targeting research organisations, suppliers and individual employees. The course outlines the common tactics, how social engineering is used to get your information, the targeting of individuals and escalation of threats. The comprehensive course workbook provides numerous personal security tips and shows you how to minimise your exposure to these tactics, at home, at work and when driving.
